There will again be lots of seasonal "hands on" activities to try at the popular "Activity Thursday" at the Rural Life Centre, Tilford, on October 31st. You could have fun making a traditional Guy, play with conkers, be a nature detective, or even try apple bobbing.
 There will be period toys to play with; a working pole lathe and you can find out when "children should be seen and not heard!" All activities undercover if wet.
 For very young, the museum dolls house will be open. You can also spend time exploring the other interesting museum buildings and exhibits. There is plenty to see and do.
 Remember don't miss the last "Activity Thursday" of the year. Come and stay all day. You can wrap up warmly

New look World Rugby Museum

Twickenham, 3 October 2013: The new look World Rugby Museum officially re-opened. It houses the world's finest collection of rugby memorabilia – over 25,000 iconic object dating back to the start of the game.

Located under the East Stand of Twickenham Stadium, the World Rugby Museum was given a wholesale makeover this summer in preparation for the hotly anticipated home World Cup in 2015.

As well as a contemporary re-brand for the world's finest collection of rugby artefacts and even more films and iconic footage of rugby's most memorable moments, a brand new 'Play Rugby' interactive zone has been created. This allows visitors to test their own skills including speed, jumping ability, strength and kicking prowess and poses the question: 'What Kind of Rugby Player Are You?'

The museum's award-winning educational facilities are now also integrated into its permanent galleries.

Old favourites return in a refreshed setting including:

- A glittering array of trophies including the Calcutta Cup, the intricately engraved trophy made of 270 silver rupees that England and Scotland have been competing for since 1879.
- The only surviving jersey from rugby's first-ever international in 1871.
- The real story of William Webb Ellis and how he didn't invent the game.
- Film and video footage, including the Rugby World Cup film, which allows visitors to re-live some of the most memorable rugby moments as they journey through the ages.

Farming World, Boughton will be celebrating Halloween with a variety of activities planned for October half term. Visitors to the open farm will be able to create a range of Halloween themed crafts, and carve pumpkins between the 28th October and 3rd November. With winter on the horizon the open farm provides a great opportunity to get outside and make the most of the autumn sunshine. The location of the farm gives a great vantage point to enjoy the beautiful autumnal colours of the Kent countryside.

The wide range of facilities at Farming World offers enjoyment for all ages and in any weather. The indoor play barn will be a hive of activity and spooky fun between the 28th Oct and 3rd Nov, children can make witches hats and go to town selecting, designing and carving pumpkins. These completed craft projects will make great souvenirs to take home. The barn also has a large, two storey soft play area to entertain the children and shelter adults in the event of a shower. The indoor soft play barn and craft room is a great asset if you are visiting in bad weather, especially as admission is at no extra charge. If you are lucky enough to visit on the 30th October the friendly farm animals will be joined by a variety of spiders from Invicta Arachnids. This is a great opportunity to learn more about spiders, will you be brave enough to hold one? Farming World aims to provide all the family with a fun day out, full of new experiences. As well as spooky fun there are plenty of other attractions at the open farm to enjoy. These include a host of friendly animals to visit, such as, pigs, rabbits, llamas, sheep and heavy horses. A visit to Hawklands Birds of Prey Centre is also a must. You can meet eagles, owls and Rodney the vulture. Birds of prey flying demonstrations are held twice daily (except Mondays). On the 1st November you can also take part in one of these demonstrations during 'Have a Go' Falconry Day. Sharon Hollens, the farm's resident falconer will be happy to answer any questions visitors have about any of the birds. You can also visit the conservation and rearing room to learn more about the life cycle of different birds. When all the animals and birds have been visited there are always the two outdoor adventure playgrounds to tackle, jumping pillows to bounce on and a round of mini golf to master. You can also take a tractor and trailer ride (weather permitting) to enjoy and explore the beautiful surrounding countryside.

Farming World will close for the winter on the 3rd November.

For further details call 01227 751144 or visit www.farming-world.co.uk.

Farming World is open seven days a week until 3rd November, 9.30am to 5.30pm, and is just off Junction 7 of the M2. Admission prices are £6.50 adults and £5.50 for children aged 2 - 15 years. Sorry no dogs. Some activities weather permitting.

Dining out with Kids

Restaurants & Children Can Co-Exist thanks to new KID-FRIENDLY Sticker

We all know the nightmares of eating out with small children. Whether a parent yourself or a diner in the same venue as a family with a screaming baby/ unruly children, what should be a great night out has a tendency to turn into a nightmare for all involved.

MotherDriven has made it easy for both parents and restaurants by creating and distributing a KID-FRIENDLY Sticker. Further on the site, Editor and Mum Olivia Richardson has identified five top tips for dining out with kids.

Etiquette guidelines include:

1. Call beforehand to make sure the restaurant's equipped for kids. Does it have a high chair available? Are kids' meal options on the menu? If not, that's a dead giveaway it's not kid-friendly and it's best to look elsewhere.
2. BYO entertainment – an iPad, crayons, paper... whatever will maintain the kids' attention for about two hours.
3. Watch wanderers. Kids can get bored easily and a restaurant can be a busy place where the kitchen's often open and breakables and sharps are at their reach. Remain seated at all times please!

4. Grab-proof the area. Make sure the wine glasses, the water glasses – whatever's breakable – isn't within reach of a grabber's curious little fingers.
5. Take screamers out, ASAP. It's time for a walk outside if your child opens their lungs, Jimmy Barnes' style, at the dinner table. Kids or not, patrons won't (and shouldn't have to) put up with this. "Parents should know most of these guidelines already, but given the horror stories we've heard it seems they're not putting them into practise," says Mum, diner and online editor of MotherDriven.com Olivia Richardson.

"When it comes to dining out, parents need to be realistic about whether their family and a desired restaurant are going to mesh well together. Our new KID-FRIENDLY Sticker help with that choice."

Autumn is one of the best times to visit WWT London Wetland Centre to watch the beautiful ducks in their brightly coloured plumage. Teal, wiggon and shoveler - like the one pictured - return in the autumn to spend the winter

Visit Guide in the Hide each day to see which water birds are about and where they have been over the summer. Join in the nature craft sessions, using natural and recycled materials, focusing on the over-wintering birds at the Centre.

The end of summer and the changing of the seasons heralds the beginning of one of nature's greatest events, migration. As days shorten and temperatures fall, millions of birds begin their flight south in search of food and more favourable weather conditions. Come and experience the wonders of migration at London Wetland Centre.

Wear it Blue for children's charity

The new look for the autumn term is blue. It's the style soon to be seen in schools across the country. That's why Sparks, the children's medical research charity, is asking schools to follow the latest fashion and take part in their brand new fundraiser, Wear it Blue.

Wear it Blue is a simple and fun way for pupils to come together and give hope to thousands of children and their families by simply making a small donation and coming to school wearing something blue.

The official Wear it Blue week is 21-25 October (the week before half-term) and schools can take part any day that week. If that week is not convenient, schools can still Wear it Blue at another more convenient time.

Sparks is dedicated to funding pioneering research into a wide range of medical conditions affecting the lives of babies, children and mums-to-be. Schools can take part in Wear it Blue and help the one child in 30 born in the UK with a medical condition or disability which may affect them for life. That's about one child in every classroom.

Children's health is always in fashion at Sparks, where their goal is for every child to be born healthy and stay healthy. Whether pupils don a simple pair of blue socks or come to school dressed up as their favourite blue character, by taking part in Wear it Blue they will be helping those children who need Sparks support.

Register to take part at www.sparks.org.uk/wearitblue and you'll receive a fundraising pack, containing everything you'll need to help Sparks make a difference to the lives of babies, children and mums-to-be.

Appetising events being held 16 - 20 October

RHS Garden Wisley, Surrey will celebrate harvest this October with Taste of Autumn, a festival aimed at foodies, families and grow-your-own enthusiasts. The festival will take place from Wednesday 16 to Sunday 20 October and will feature cookery demonstrations, apple tastings, stalls, family activities at the weekend and a host of famous faces.

At the heart of the festival will be more than 40 local producers and experts selling autumn produce and tasty dishes, including cheese, sausages and pies, fruit and veg, chocolate, breads, tempting snacks and street food. Celebrity chef James Martin headlines the roster of foodie talent and will be signing books at 2pm on the Wednesday. Food writer and local produce champion Rosemary Moon will be holding cookery demonstrations in the marquee alongside preserving workshops from Taste of Wisley. Later in the week author Sarah al-Hamd will be talking about her latest recipe book Sun, Bread and Sticky Toffee.

RHS experts will be on hand all week, giving talks and master classes on growing your own food in Wisley's famous veg plot and fruit demonstration gardens. There will also be talks on edible mushrooms, cheese making, beekeping and cheese and wine tasting. Those wanting to make a day of it can start their festival experience with a harvest brunch at the Wisley Restaurant from 10-11:30am over the weekend. The brunch includes classic egg dishes, Greek yoghurt with Wisley berry compote, brioche rolls with Fruit Field jam and freshly pressed Wisley apple juice, all eaten while the chef gives a talk on how to cook and preserve the autumn bounty. The Restaurant will also feature a three-course autumn lunch menu, specially devised to show off Wisley produce and an array of local ingredients at their peak. All events are free with normal garden admission, for Restaurant prices and times or for more detail on events please visit

Go Batty for Bats' and Halloween Family Discovery Day

Half-term activities at the Isis Education Centre in Hyde Park

Two Halloween-based activity days for families:

Go Batty for Bats (Family Workshop) - Tuesday 29 Oct 10am-12noon, £10-£15
Hyde Park and Kensington Gardens are home to several different bat species – common pipistrelles, soprano pipistrelles, and noctules – and Royal Parks Foundation team at the Isis Education Centre at the LookOut in Hyde Park runs events to inform visitors about them.

In October, as the Park's bats prepare to hibernate, Go Batty for Bats will focus on the lifestyles of these mysterious creatures and show visitors of all ages how to make hibernation boxes, how to camouflage them, and where to put them.

The two-hour daytime session will also explore the real truth about bats; where they live, how they hunt and what they like to eat. Visitors will get the chance to follow the bat trail in the garden and learn all about these important nocturnal creatures.

Halloween Family Discover Day - Wednesday 30 October 11am-3pm, free

All ages are welcome to drop in for a wander around the nature trails at the Isis Education Centre. Discovery Days are regular activities held at the Centre during school holidays. On this special day, visitors get in the Halloween spirit and take part in a host of spectacularly spooky activities:

- Colouring-in bat masks and finger bats
- Feely boxes with yucky things inside
- Bat trail in the garden
- 'Pin the wart on the witch' activity
- Potion making from herbs, sticks and mud.

There is no need to book, visitors are welcome any time between 11am and 3pm. The Isis Education Centre in Hyde Park is well-placed to host a range of outdoor activities exploring nature in the Park. It is a unique eco-friendly building, set in an acre of enclosed grounds, and the perfect base for outdoor learning. Facilities include with state-of-the-art equipment and web cams both in nest boxes and underwater. With a wide variety of habitats to study, from log piles to meadows and ponds, there's no end to discovery.

The Royal Parks Foundation delivers a wide ranging and accessible outdoor education programmes. The schools programme for primary and secondary schools is linked to the National Curriculum, and there is a year-round programme of informal activities for individuals and groups to join, from guided walks to hands-on sessions. THE NUTCRACKER ON ICE

Starring Keith Chegwin and Olga Sharutenko from TV's Dancing on Ice
At The London Palladium

International ice dance sensation The Imperial Ice Stars bring the UK Premiere of their dazzling new production of The Nutcracker on Ice to the heart of the West End this autumn. Starring ITV's Dancing on Ice duo Keith Chegwin and Olga Sharutenko. It opens at the London Palladium on Thursday 24 October for a strictly limited season of 14 performances only.

The Palladium is no stranger to ice; the iconic London venue was once the site of

The National Skating Palace in the late 1890s, and hosted the World Figure Skating Championships in 1898. The Nutcracker on Ice marks the first time almost 36 years that the London Palladium stage will be transformed into an ice rink.

To Tchaikovsky's famous score, the 26-strong cast of Olympic, World, European and National Championship skaters will astound and mesmerise audiences with their adrenaline-rich, dramatic performance, in the intimate setting of a frozen theatre stage.

Set in early 1900s St Petersburg, The Nutcracker on Ice follows the classic Russian tale of Marie, the little girl whose love brings to life her cherished Nutcracker doll - a magical Christmas gift from her mysterious godfather Drosselmeyer - leading to adventures with the Mouse King, the enchanted Prince, and the Sugar Plum Fairy.

The Nutcracker on Ice at the London Palladium from Thursday 24 October until Sunday 3 November will thrill and enchant all ages.

Keith Chegwin and Olga Sharutenko captured the nation's hearts with their fun and energetic routines on ITV's Dancing on Ice earlier this year, surviving the public vote twice before they were eventually eliminated in Week 7. With a career that spans almost 50 years Keith Chegwin, who will skate as Drosselmeyer, is much loved by television audiences

Bullying- One of the Greatest Crisis Facing us in Society Today

With children now 'safely' returned back to school, cognitive neuroscientist and chartered psychologist Dr Lynda Shaw is calling for parents, teachers, carers and friends alike to tackle bullying head on as it increasingly becomes one of the greatest crises facing us in society today.

Shaw says: "Bullying is unacceptable. Full stop. There is never a situation that justifies bullying. It is too awful to contemplate that not only do many of our children not feel safe at school, because we are witnessing a rise in teenage cyber bullying. It is common knowledge that if children and teenagers bully they often turn into adult bullies. Bullying needs to be strongly addressed in school by teaching target children what precisely they need to do to help themselves, such as considering body language and how to be assertive, even if they feel insecure and downtrodden." Shaw suggests that getting the bully and target to talk is a good idea, but a third party needs to be involved whether it be a teacher, teaching assistant or school counsellor however, she estimates one in four teachers do not recognise even so called 'light' bullying and only intervene around 5% of the time.

"The NSPCC report that 38% of young people have been affected by cyber-bullying and 18% of children and young people who are worried about bullying said they would not talk to their parents about it. 8 out of 10 young people believe that cyber bullying is getting worse, according to research from the Diana Award Anti-Bullying Ambassadors programme. Cyber bullying is spiralling out of control."

Shaw argues that whenever anyone is made to feel bad about themselves, this can be a clear warning that they are being bullied. Bullying is increasingly having tragic consequences, with targets often under achieving at school or work, becoming isolated, developing anxiety and depression, and in extreme cases being driven to end their own lives. Shaw believes that with the right help, the targets of bullies can deal with their emotions and bring a successful end to their bullying. Shaw's book, 'Beat the Bullies: Use your brain' is designed to help children who are being bullied while giving them a clearer understanding of the wonders of the brain.

Low Omega-3 could explain why some children struggle with reading

University study has shown that a representative sample of UK schoolchildren aged seven to nine years had low levels of key Omega-3 fatty acids in their blood. Furthermore, the study found that children's blood levels of the long-chain Omega-3 DHA (the form found in most abundance in the brain) 'significantly predicted' how well they were able to concentrate and learn. Oxford University researchers explained the findings, recently published in the journal PLOS One.

The study was presented at the conference by co-authors Dr Alex Richardson and Professor Paul Montgomery of Oxford University's Centre for Evidence-Based Intervention in the Department of Social Policy and Intervention.

"Technical advances in recent years have enabled the measurement of individual Omega-3 and other fatty acids from fingerstick blood samples. "These new techniques have been revolutionary – because in the past, blood samples from a vein were needed for assessing fatty acids, and that has seriously restricted research into the blood Omega-3 status of healthy UK children until now," said Dr Richardson.

The authors believe these findings may be relevant to the general UK population, as the spread of scores in this sample was within the normal population range for both reading and behaviour. However, they caution that these findings may not apply to more ethnically diverse populations as some genetic differences can affect how Omega-3 fatty acids are metabolised. Most of the children participating in this study were white British.

Switched-on Parents ahead of Primary Schools in use of iPads for Learning

Tech savvy and engaged parents are using iPad apps to give their children a head start in education, and are keen for primary schools to follow their lead. The leading UK education app developer, Apps in My Pocket, conducted a survey of 456 parents. It revealed how the iPad is changing the way children are learning to read and write.

Parents using the iPad or iPad as a learning tool for 3-7 year olds were surveyed. Parents that were using education apps at home were overwhelmingly in favour of using iPads in primary schools, with 88 per cent of the respondents supportive of the idea. A recent Ofcom survey has highlighted the increasing use of iPad and other tablets in the home, which more than doubled in the last year*. However this isn't being reflected in schools. Primary schools in the UK are starting to use iPads to help children with reading and writing skills. However the survey indicated that only 40 per cent of primary schools were using iPads at all, with most having just a handful. Android based tablets were even more rare, with only three per cent reporting their schools using them. Which leaves 57 per cent of primary schools not even experimenting with tablets in education. Use of iPads drops to 18 per cent in pre school. The survey showed that while costs are a prohibiting factor, the iPad was far more prevalent in schools than cheaper Android based tablets by a factor of 14:1.

Some of the comments from users of PocketPhonics demonstrated the success parents are having with the app.

How to Potty Train

Potty training can be one of the most stressful stages of parenting, with many parents also unsure when they should start. Now there's an easy-to-use and beautifully illustrated book that is full of common-sense tips to make potty training easier. 'How to Potty Train' guides parents through each stage of potty training and combines fun sections for kids with advice for parents, so that they can learn together. Full of colourful illustrations that will appeal to children, the book includes a number of 'read together' sections, with the first of these a 'routine story book' that helps to explain the process to children in a fun and engaging way. Other read-together sections cover 'How Your Body Works', including 'what goes in must come out' and 'What to Expect When Out and About' including tips on getting used to noisy hand-driers and queues. In How to Potty Train, authors Jude Hough and Diane Titterton guide parents through their easy-to-follow stages of potty training. The book includes stickers that can be used to reward children for their potty training efforts and there are also special places in the book for the children to add the stickers as they progress. A 'Certificate of Achievement' is included for when day-time potty training has been mastered. Published by Brewin Books and costs around £8.95. It is available from a range of retailers including Amazon and from the Dry Like Me website www.drylikeme.com

The Ursuline Prep School Opens a New Building

The Ursuline Preparatory School Wimbledon is opening a wonderful new building in the school grounds. This new building, known as St Ursula's, is a multi-purpose learning area that is also suitable for after school clubs and activities. St Ursula's other purpose is as a useful space for The Parents'

Association to use for social events and fund-raising occasions. This light, open, modern space is furnished with a generous kitchen area, interactive whiteboard and superb raised decking area outside, which will allow the free flow of children's play.

Mrs Anne Farnish, Headmistress, said "We are delighted to have this wonderful multi-purpose facility, which will provide our pupils with further opportunities for extra-curricular learning. We are particularly grateful to the Parents' Association and Governors for their support in helping to make this project such a success."

The Ursuline Preparatory School has an Open Day on Saturday 12th October 2013, from 10am to 12 noon, when you will be able to tour the entire school as well as the new St Ursula's block. Open Week is 21st – 25th October 9:30 – 11:30 am www.ursuline-prep.merton.sch.uk 020 8947 0859.

Education

How to get the most out of Open Days – 6 top tips.

By Louise Simpson, Head, Bromley High School

Open events in Schools can be challenging for all concerned. What if the weather is poor? What if we can't squeeze everyone into the hall? What if the carefully rehearsed Year 7 pupils forget their lines in the presentations? With everyone at the school doing their best to show you the school in its best light, there is much at stake. But it can be a challenge for prospective parents and pupils too, so how can you get the most out of the open days and what should you be looking for when you go?

1. Plan ahead – it is never too early to start looking at possible schools for your offspring, and sometimes two or more visits are needed to get a good sense of the school and the personnel there. Parents often visit my school two or three years in advance, and we welcome them when they come back again, it is nice to have a chance to forge a relationship with the family before joining.

2. Choose your schools – just as it is not a good idea to sit your child for lots of entrance tests, it is not a good idea to visit too many schools. You will lose clarity over the specific offer of each of the schools and start to get muddled in your decision making. You will feel more focussed in your visit if you have some clear criteria over school choice before planning open day visits (ie Single sex or co-ed? Boarding or day? Large or small?)

3. Do your homework – research the school in advance, have an idea of what you are looking for when you get there. If your child is a great swimmer, make sure that you have researched the quality of the pool and the inclusion of swimming in the curriculum for example. If your child is a brilliant musician, make sure the schools you are visiting have music scholarship programmes and a wide range of visiting music teachers. Local reputation, friends and family as well as the literature and website can give a clear picture.

4. Be ready to be surprised – despite doing your homework, you may still find that there is much about a school that you did not know, that you can find out on the visit. Keep an open mind when you are there and be prepared for surprises; hopefully they will be pleasant ones.

5. Listen to the pupils – the pupils are the product of the school and an excellent school will produce impressive pupils in every respect. Ask the pupils questions; do they know their school well? Are they proud of their school? Do they reflect the values and ethos of the school? Everything you need to know about the quality of teaching and learning, the co-curricular programme and pupils' personal development should be evident from the pupils and their behaviour. 6. Ask to come again – all schools can put on a good show once in a while, but the real proof of the pudding is in the eating. Ask to come back and meet key personnel and have a tour on a working day. This really will show the school in its true light and, hopefully, will make the decision making easy. If the school cares about you making the right decision they will happily welcome you back and will do all you can to make you feel as welcome as possible on that visit and on subsequent ones.

Give away, 10 Big Book of Pesto from Italian food producer Sacla'

See the recipe below which is an example from the book you could get for free! Just send your name and address on a postcard to PARENTS NEWS 10 The Manor Drive Worcester Park Surrey KT4 7LG (RRP £14.99). We will draw 10 to receive free copies. Usual PN rules apply

A Souper Sacla' Supper -deliciousness in a bowl

Soup, glorious soup – it's everything you need in a bowl and it really couldn't be easier to make! Take the humble British carrot for example. By adding an onion, some stock and a generous swirl of Sacla' Coriander Pesto you've conjured up a meal packed with goodness that brightens up an Autumn evening or makes you smile at lunchtime. Add your own touch, maybe croutons, or some chopped herbs – or try one of the other gorgeous Sacla' Pesto varieties. Whatever you fancy you really can't go wrong. Buon appetito!

Carrot Soup with Coriander Pesto

Serves 4
Ingredients
1 tbsp olive oil
1 onion, roughly chopped
500g carrots, peeled and roughly chopped
1 tsp ground coriander
750ml-1 litre vegetable or chicken stock
4 tsp Sacla' Coriander Pesto
salt and freshly ground black pepper
Instructions
Heat the oil in a large saucepan over a medium heat. Add the onion and cook gently for about 5 minutes, until softened and just starting to turn golden. Stir in the carrots and ground coriander and cook for a minute.

Pour in 750ml of the stock and bring to the boil. Lower the heat and simmer, partly covered with a lid, for 30 to 40 minutes, until the carrots are lovely and tender.

Using a stick blender, puree the soup, adding a little extra hot stock if needed until you get the consistency you like. Season, to taste, with salt and pepper. Ladle into warm bowls and swirl a dollop of Pesto on top, followed by a good grinding of black pepper. Join Sacla' and become one of their special fans
