Seven best child friendly beaches

For a holiday the whole family can enjoy it is essential to find a beach where the children can play safely and the adults can enjoy a well-deserved break.

The team at CheapHolidayLand.com has come up with the top seven beaches to help you find your perfect summer holiday destination.

1.Praia Dona Ana Beach, Algarve
 Located on the western coast, the beach is just outside the family friendly resort of Lagos. Complete with soft golden sands and shallow waters, this beach serves as an ideal playground for tots, whilst providing a stylish relaxation for adults.

2.St George's beach, Malta
 This sandy cove is situated in the vibrant resort of St. Julian's. In close proximity to plenty of al fresco restaurants there is plenty to see and do. With beautifully clear turquoise sea this beach is perfect for swimming and snorkelling.

3.Playa Maspalomas, Gran Canaria
 Gran Canaria is great for half-term getaways due to the year round sunshine and warm temperatures. Situated amongst the sandy dunes, this beach offers something for everyone. Just an hour's drive from the capital, Las Palmas, there is loads to do. Older children will enjoy exploring the dunes whilst looking out for the rare birds that inhabit them. As for the restaurants, they are copiously dotted along this long stretch to cater for every need.

4.Camp De Mar Beach, Majorca
 This Mediterranean suntrap offers visitors a slice of Balearic tranquility. With shallow waters and soft sands, the wide-open bay of this beach also provides an adventure playground for the kids to run wild. And if that all gets a bit too much, it's just a short walk down the beach to a restaurant serving fresh food and cold drinks all day long.

5.El Camion Beach, Tenerife
 The 120m of golden sands in the popular Tenerife resort of Playa de Las Americas is made for children. The relatively small, horseshoe shaped cove means that no matter where the children are playing you can keep an eye on them. With purpose built changing areas, showers, and plenty of places to eat you can relax in the knowledge that everything you could ever need is right at your fingertips.

6.LaRrañ, Costa Brava
 Just south of the popular Tamarit district, this beach has an easily navigable coastal path running between the two. With white sands running as far as the eye can see, the warm shallow waters compliment the beach. Protected from the elements the sea is serene, making it perfect for the kids to safely splash around in whilst the adults relax. For older children there are rock pools for them to explore just a short walk along the rocky headland.

7.Cala Brandinchi, Sardinia
 Part of the 23 miles of protected San Teodoro coastline, this beach boasts fine sands and clear transparent waters. Just a short drive away from the city centre this beach is easily reachable by public transport or car. Whether you want to bask in the warm caresses of the sun or savour the subdued sea breeze this beach offers tranquil relaxation with plenty to do for the kids. Boredom busters include kite surfing and bird spotting which are sure to entertain the older children.

Blowing the Whistle on GDC Scam.

Orthodontists and the General Dental Council are operating an illegal scam to withhold information from the public about new methods which can avoid almost all extractions and even major jaw surgery. This is being done partly to protect traditional methods and partly to preserve the high incomes of orthodontists and surgeons. Research suggests that this British development is being ignored in the UK while spreading rapidly abroad. As a result hundreds of children and young adults have extractions and jaw surgery, unaware they may be unnecessary.

Some Orthodontists mislead patients, saying that extractions can be avoided although the traditional methods they use leave too little room, risking severe damage to the face. It is wise to explore the internet yourself, many sites make great claims and show beautiful faces but very few show good results before and after treatment. Even the media is scared of disclosing this scandal.

There is another way.
 Take a second opinion now. Nine years old may be too late.

ORTHOTROPICS

The alternative to orthodontics with extractions and surgery.

Orthodontics usually require the extraction of 4 to 6 sound teeth although this is frequently denied.

Family was treated by natural methods. No extractions. No "Train Tracks". No retainers.

Research shows Orthotropics can get much better results than "Train Tracks".

Family Activity Break in France

Three action-packed summer holidays based in different regions of France are available from Family Adventure Holidays

Prices (excluding travel) start at just £295 per adult and £245 per child for seven nights' full board with all activities.

Families can choose between a fun-packed, all-inclusive holiday based at a chateau in Normandy; a high-octane watersports holiday on the Mediterranean coast; or a week's adventure in the Ardeche where the highlight is the thrilling descent of the Ardeche gorge by canoe. All activities are led by professionally-qualified English-speaking instructors and holidays also include outings and evening entertainment with camp fires, quizzes and barbecues. Nothing is compulsory and there is a flexible choice of activities and accommodation, with the emphasis on making friends and having fun together.

Available through the summer – July 19 to September 13 – the three holidays represent the first dedicated family programme from the Sussex-based, ABTA-bonded team behind Family Adventure

Holidays who have been successfully arranging activity trips for school groups for more than 20 years.

For families with younger children, the Normandy Adventure Holiday is a great-value, all-inclusive week based at a 200-year-old chateau near Avranches and the coast. Included are more than 20 activities for all ages – from canoeing and climbing to biking and bread-making – plus accommodation, all meals and drinks. Activities are tailored to different age groups, with pursuits such as clay pigeon-shooting and cider-tasting for parents. Prices start at £295 per adult and child aged 16 and over, and £245 per child aged 6-15, with under-6s free August 30-September 13. Prices for the remainder of the summer are £345 per adult and child aged 16 and over, £295 per child aged 6-15, and £95 per child aged 2-5s. Accommodation is in ensuite family rooms.

Based at a four-star family-run campsite at Argeles sur Mer on the Mediterranean coast, the French Mediterranean Watersports holiday features windsurfing, sailing, kayaking, whitewater rafting, canyoning, snorkelling and paddle-boarding. Back on dry land there are beach activities, plus mountain treks and wine tours for the grown-ups. Accommodation is self-catering in mobile homes, with barbecues and packed lunches provided on some days. Prices remain the same throughout the summer, with a week costing £496 for adults, £386 for children aged 8-15 (under-eights are welcome but cannot participate in activities).

For real adrenaline-junkies the Ardeche Adventure for families with children aged eight years and over promises a thrilling two-day whitewater canoe descent of the Ardeche gorge, with an overnight bivouac in the heart of the gorge. Also on the activity menu are kayaking, climbing, abseiling, weaselling in the limestone cliffs, and a high ropes course among the pine forests of Villefort.

Accommodation is self-catering in mobile homes on a three-star campsite set among vineyards in the low mountains of the Cevennes, near Lablachere. A barbecue and breakfast is provided on the bivouac night. Price is £438 per week for adults and children, apart from the last week, beginning September 6, when it drops to £398.

from 14-19 April. 'Blackbeard's Revenge' is an interactive drama experience based loosely on the adventures of Edward Teach, the notorious English pirate of the 18th Century.

Led by a team of Head2Head's actors, participants will move around the venue, discovering scenes and meeting characters from the story.

With rhyme, rhythm, repetition, reduced dialogue, puppetry, movement-to-music, role play and sensory movements, 'Blackbeard's Revenge' is accessible and appropriate for all levels. Advance Packs will be distributed to familiarise participants with storyline, characters and rhymes.

If weather permits, some of the action will take place outdoors.

Calling All Budding Young Designers!

Tower Bridge Launches 'Design a Bridge' Competition for Kids – Ideal Half-term Activity!

To celebrate its 120th birthday this year, Tower Bridge, the most famous bridge in the world, launches a new national competition for 6 to 14 year olds, offering them the opportunity to design the second most famous bridge in the world!

To 14th March 2014, young artists, designers and engineers are being invited to draw their very own version of the iconic bridge, one of London's best loved historical landmarks – and the overall winner will see their masterpiece transformed into an amazing 'real-life' 3D model for public display in the Tower Bridge Exhibition, seen by 2,000 daily visitors! First though, make sure you come and visit the Exhibition - the 'Great Bridges of London' display will leave kids inspired....

The entries will be judged by an independent panel, which includes Isabel Wolfe Barry, great great granddaughter of the bridge's original civil engineer, Sir John Wolfe Barry!

Isabel Wolfe Barry comments: "1885, with Royal Assent, heralded the dawn of the new river crossing, gateway to the South, an iconic symbol of London revered throughout the world, a legendary feat of engineering comprising a combined bascule and suspension bridge devised and constructed by my great, great grandfather in conjunction with the architect, Sir Horace Jones.

The competition for the new bridge began in 1876 and these brains won it. Some doubted it could be done. I'm incredibly humbled by these individuals and their awe-inspiring vision.

It is an honour to be invited to be a judge on the panel for this competition, more than 120 years later, in celebration and as a mark of respect for the talent that precedes us. My advice to the excited, young brains participating now - be inspired, be innovated and don't you dare let anyone tell you it cannot be done!"

How to Enter
Entering the competition is easy. Entry forms and full terms & conditions can be downloaded from the Tower Bridge website www.towerbridge.org.uk or just come along to Tower Bridge and pick up a form.

Artists' tools can include anything from crayons and felt-tip pens, to paint, pasta shapes, textiles, even a computer – and all designs must be shown on an A4, flat piece of paper (2D). Entries are split into three different age groups, meaning that more than one child from each household can apply.

Rules and prize information
• The competition closing date for entries is 14th March 2014.

• Three age categories are available: category 1 is for entrants aged 6-8, category 2 is for ages 9-11 and category 3 is for ages 12-14.
• All designs must be shown in 2D, on an A4 flat piece of paper, meaning that photos must be uploaded and A3 drawings must be presented on A4.

Education

Open events in schools can be challenging for all concerned

With everyone at the school doing their best to show off the school, there is much at stake. Bromley High School's Head, Louise Simpson, understands that it can be a challenge for prospective parents and pupils too, and she outlines what you should be looking for when you go.

Plan ahead – it is never too early to start looking at possible schools, and sometimes two or more visits are needed to get a good sense of the school. Choose your schools – just as it is not a good idea to see schools for lots of entrance tests, it is not a good idea to visit too many schools. Have some clear criteria over school choice before planning visits (Single sex or co-ed? Boarding or day?) Research the school in advance, know what you are looking for when you get there. If your child is a brilliant musician, make sure the schools you are visiting have music scholarship programmes and a wide range of visiting music teachers for example. Listen to the pupils. Ask them questions; do they know their school well? Are they proud of their school? Everything you need to know about the quality of teaching and learning, the co-curricular programme and pupils' personal development should be evident from the pupils and their behaviour. Ask to come again – all schools can put on a good show once in a while. Ask for a tour on a working day.

Do something amazing this year and sign up for RBC Race for the Kids

Join in the fun and raise vital funds for Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity

Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity's family-friendly 5k fun run, the RBC Race for the Kids, returns to London's beautiful Battersea Park on Sunday 8 June 2014.

Ideal for beginners and fitness fanatics alike, the event sees thousands of people of all ages run, walk and scoot to the finish line to raise vital funds for Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity. Participants can join individually or in teams, making it the perfect day out for friends, family and work colleagues, with post-race activities and entertainment for all. Supported by Royal Bank of Canada for the fifth year running, this unique event sees thousands of supporters come together to raise vital funds for the essential redevelopment of the hospital.

Last year, over 4,000 people joined in, raising more than £650,000. This year the charity hopes to raise £750,000. The money raised will help to provide new state of the art buildings and facilities for patients and their families. The new state of the art facilities will make cramped and outdated wards a thing of the past and provide space for a parent or carer so they can stay comfortably by their child's bedside. TV presenter and mother Gabby Logan who attended last year's event said "Get your family and friends together for the RBC Race for the Kids, it is a real celebration for the hospital and the families"

The RBC Race for the Kids website has plenty of fundraising tips, plus training advice for those looking for a more challenging experience. Heather Gillespie from Great Ormond Street Hospital Children's Charity said: "We're delighted to be holding the RBC Race for the Kids for the fifth year running. It's a fantastic day where we see families and friends come together to make a real difference for young patients from across the UK."

"Sign up now and join in the fun!"

Raising Stress-Proof Kids

Chronic stress is robbing children of their childhoods. Here's how you can help give them their childhood back. As parents we want to help our children to reach their full potential. After all, it's a competitive world and we need to equip them to be their best. So we knock ourselves out making sure we give them the best education we can, pushing them always to try harder and do better. Life is a school of hard knocks and we need to make sure they are tough enough to survive it. That's our job right? Well not so much actually.

Author and educator Shelley Davidow says we are robbing children of their childhoods by saturating them with the grim pressures and stresses of adult life. In her new book, Raising Stress-Proof Kids, Shelley writes that the great irony of our obsession with academic excellence is that this well intentioned pressure cripples the ability of children to think clearly and contributes to the epidemic of anxiety and depression in young people. Shelley, who has worked extensively with the HeartMath Institute in the US, has seen firsthand that stress has a measurable and detrimental effect on kid's bodies, damaging them physiologically, emotionally and cognitively.

What's more she argues that our own stressful reactions and fears for our children's future have a powerful impact on them. In order to raise truly stress proof kids we need to learn to better manage our own stress responses. Drawing on cutting-edge research, as well as Shelley's own extensive experience in working with children and teens, Raising Stress-Proof Kids offers simple, effective steps that parents can take to minimise the impact of stress at home and at school, including how to:

- resolve behaviour issues
 - deal with temper tantrums
 - resolve sibling rivalries
 - handle bullying

Education

An Easy Transition into Year 7

At St Lawrence College in Ramsgate, Years 7 and 8 have their own purpose-built 'home' - Kirby House, situated between the Junior and Senior Schools. The modern spacious building houses six classrooms, an ICT suite and its own library set around a central atrium.

A key aim of Kirby House is to ease the transition from junior to senior education by providing the best pastoral care of a junior school with all the academic benefits of a senior school. Having their own space to work and socialise provides a gentle introduction to secondary school life, allowing pupils to grow in confidence before moving on to the Senior School in Year 9.

If you are still unsure about your child's move into Year 7 in September 2014, or want to get a head start for September 2015, visit the Senior School Open Afternoon on Thursday 13 March.

The School Dilemma faced by Parents of Children with Autism

Latest research shows that over 50% of children with autism are not attending the type of school their parents believe would best support them; that unsurprisingly is leading many parents to resort to legal action to get the best provision in place for their child.

Moore Blatch education law expert, Janata Ali has assisted many parents to pursue SEN (special educational needs) appeals and disability discrimination claims against schools failing to provide sufficient educational support for children with autism.

Janata comments: "Autism can be a complex condition with many children experiencing an overlap in symptoms, but because it is a spectrum condition, the educational needs of each child can vary considerably. "In our experience educational problems often arise because children with autism struggle to get the support they need. Difficulties with communication and social skills can seriously impact on their education and learning leading to misunderstandings with teachers and pupils, with many children with autism also being bullied by fellow pupils."

In fact statistics show that over 40% of children with autism have been bullied.*

Janata continues: "In schools where there is not enough support or staff expertise in place to help a child with autism, children can experience frequent exclusions, which can have a profound effect on the child, making them withdrawn and affect their learning, education and home life."

Tracy Anderson whose son, Matthew, has autism pursued legal action on his behalf after he was excluded from his school at the age of 14. She claims that Matthew was being bullied both physically and emotionally by a fellow pupil and staff were unable to support him, which eventually left Matthew unable to cope. Tracy says: "The school unfortunately had not put enough staff support or structure in place to help Matthew and eventually he went into meltdown and was excluded."

As Tracy investigated the matter, she discovered that Matthew had been regularly taken out of class; she felt his autism was not properly understood by staff and the support he received was inconsistent. Matthew was often sent home for 'cooling-off periods' which she felt were inappropriate, informal exclusions. She says: "I was really angry to see how all of this was changing my child. It affects the whole family and also impacted on my other children. I had a mixture of emotions, I felt guilty, angry and hurt."

Matthew was diagnosed at pre-school with autism and learning difficulties and later diagnosed with epilepsy at age seven. Despite repeated incidents and continued allegations of bullying by a fellow pupil, Tracy felt that Matthew was being inadequately supported by the school, which left her no option but to pursue legal action. During this process Matthew moved to another mainstream school which had an Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) unit. This type of facility allows children with autism to get much more support and reintroduces them to mainstream lessons when they are able. Tracy's legal case on behalf of Matthew was successful and found that the school had not made reasonable adjustments to fully support Matthew. Janata continues: "Children with autism have a number of educational options available to them – the difficulty for parents is making the right choice for their child's needs."

Another mum, Marion from Hounslow pursued action on behalf of her son, as she was concerned about his social skills and the way he interacted. Despite repeated meetings with the school regarding their concerns about her son's behaviour, Marion found them unwilling to tackle his social issues as he was still performing well academically. Marion explains: "My son is an incredibly bright child, but socially he needed more support and it was very difficult to get the school to recognise this. My concern was that he could be quite aggressive and when he interacted with other children, he always wanted to be in control. He needed help to develop his social skills and make friends."

Marion was successful in her SEN appeal and ensured the Local Authority funded her son's placement at an independent specialist school with the help of the education team at Moore Blatch. The specialist school caters specifically for children with autism and Marion believes the new environment has made a huge impact on his social skills. She says the trained staff at her son's new school have helped bring out more of his personality and made him a more sociable child. Going to a specialist school has also not slowed his academic progress; he is still pursuing his GCSE's as he was previously and continues to perform well.

Matthew was diagnosed at pre-school with autism and learning difficulties and later diagnosed with epilepsy at age seven. Despite repeated incidents and continued allegations of bullying by a fellow pupil, Tracy felt that Matthew was being inadequately supported by the school, which left her no option but to pursue legal action. During this process Matthew moved to another mainstream school which had an Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) unit. This type of facility allows children with autism to get much more support and reintroduces them to mainstream lessons when they are able. Tracy's legal case on behalf of Matthew was successful and

Jennifer Addy from Leatherhead in Surrey found herself facing a similar decision to Marion and eventually chose to move her son, Matthew, to a specialist school which could provide additional support for a child with autism. Matthew's current school has specialist trained staff with onsite speech therapy as well as access to occupational therapy, so that all his needs are catered for. Matthew who has high functioning autism and ADHD was previously in a mainstream school, where he had been the subject to 13 separate exclusions, with the last being permanent. Jennifer was able to challenge the permanent exclusion, and feels that Matthew's new school is providing the right level of support and has seen great improvements in him. She says: "Matthew is reading, writing and has made good progress in science. Since the new regime, Matthew is a completely different boy, he has made friends and feedback from the staff about him is very positive."

"Although his last school did follow some strategies recommended to help children with autism – many of the staff were not specifically trained and so despite efforts, I feel they did not have the depth of understanding to be able to help Matthew."

Jennifer wants to encourage other parents who may be unhappy with the support their child is receiving, she comments: "You can't afford to sit back and let anyone tell you what is best for your child. ... you are the best person to speak on behalf of your child and sometimes you've got to be loud to be heard."
